AERIA LUXURY INTERIORS REDELIVERS FIRST GREEN BBJ

News / Business aviation, Maintenance / Trainings

ST Aerospace's VIP completions brand 'AERIA Luxury Interiors' (AERIA) redelivered its first green BBJ (Boeing Business Jet) VIP completion for an undisclosed customer at the end of December, 2015. The San Antonio based affiliate company accepted the green BBJ in late 2014 directly from Boeing.

The BBJ VIP interior features a dedicated forward crew lounge, finished galley, conference room, large resting lounge, and master suite. 3D printed items are showcased in the interior as decorative pieces with elegant finishes including the application of precious stone. Multiple hi-definition monitors complement the modern digital entertainment system. The luxury cabin was also outfitted with humidification and zonal drying system. A custom designed exterior paint scheme was included with the design package created by the in-house AERIA design team.

“Redelivery on our first green BBJ is a pivotal moment for AERIA Luxury Interiors. In just a few short years, AERIA has become a prominent competitor in the VIP market. We are pleased to offer a one-stop-shop for maintenance, refurbishments and completions,” said Mr Ron Soret, AERIA’s Vice President and General Manager of Completions.

A division of US affiliate VT San Antonio Aerospace, AERIA specialises in the completions and refurbishment of both Airbus and Boeing jets. Located in San Antonio, Texas – the birthplace of large aircraft VIP completions – AERIA has access to skilled craftsmen, a pool of highly trained engineering talent as well as a cluster of supporting businesses in the region. VT San Antonio Aerospace a subsidiary of Vision Technologies Aerospace Incorporated (VT Aerospace), and marketed as part of ST Aerospace’s MRO network.

VT Aerospace which owns six aerospace operating companies in five locations namely, Burlington, Washington; Mobile, Alabama; Hondo, Texas; San Antonio, Texas; and Wethersfield, Connecticut, is a subsidiary of Vision Technologies Systems, Inc.
