HUNDREDS OF PASSENGERS FORCED TO EVACUATE BRISBANE AIRPORT AFTER FIRE INSIDE DOMESTIC TERMINAL

News / Airports / Routes

Hundreds of passengers were forced to evacuate Brisbane Airport after smoke alarms went off in a terminal.

The alarm was sounded shortly before 4:30 p.m. in the Qantas domestic area of the airport after smoke was spotted coming from a cooking appliance, according to an airport spokeswoman.

The drama was short-lived, as passengers were allowed back into the terminal a short time later.

"Domestic Terminal alarms were activated. The situation has been resolved and things will return to normal shortly," the airport said in a statement.

It is believed the incident will result in "minor delays" for Qantas passengers, according to Nine News.

A number of passengers caught up in the dramatic event posted pictures of large crowds gathered outside the airport.

© 2015-2026 50SKYSHADES.COM — Reproduction, copying, or redistribution for commercial purposes is prohibited.

Stuart Elkins, one of the people evacuated, shared a photograph that appeared to show hundreds of passengers standing near the exits of the terminal.

Other pictures showed passengers sprawled across steps outside; while another showed desperately looking at screens to find out whether their flights had been delayed, after they returned inside.

08 SEPTEMBER 2015

SOURCE: THE DAILY MAIL
ARTICLE LINK:
https://50skyshades.com/index.php/news/airports-routes/hundreds-of-passengers-forced-to-evacuate-brisbane-airport-after-fire-inside-domestic-terminal

© 2015-2026 50SKYSHADES.COM — Reproduction, copying, or redistribution for commercial purposes is prohibited.