News / Airports / Routes

Ryanair announced a new route from Liverpool to Bari, with a twice weekly service beginning in March 2017, the first route of Ryanair's Liverpool summer 2017 schedule, which will be launched in full soon.

Ryanair's Robin Kiely said:

“Ryanair is pleased to announce a new route from Liverpool to Bari, which starts in March with a twice weekly service, the first of our summer 2017 routes, with our full schedule set to be unveiled soon.

Liverpool customers and visitors can look forward to further improvements under Ryanair's “Always Getting Better” programme including more new routes, new digital features, new cabin interiors and even more low fares.

To celebrate our new route, we are releasing seats on sale from Liverpool to Bari from just £29.99 for travel in April and May, which are available for booking until midnight Monday (22 Aug). Since these amazing low fares will be snapped up quickly, customers should log onto www.ryanair.com and book a summer break to sunny Italy today."

Robin Tudor, Head of PR for Liverpool John Lennon Airport said:

"This is yet another new route to be served from Liverpool and the only flight to Bari from the North West. It comes hot on the heels of Ryanair's news of flights to Marrakech from here, and gives the region's travellers an even greater choice of destinations from Liverpool."
