

555 PACKAGE FROM AIR SERVICE BASEL TO HELP OPERATORS DURING THE CORONA PANDEMIC

News / Business aviation

Air Service Basel is launching a package for its operators. The company aims to help operators maintain passenger requests, crew training and aircraft airworthiness so launches a package available immediately to all handling requests.

The full-service FBO located at EuroAirport in Basel, Switzerland, remains operational, despite border restrictions and are maintaining the highest level of health and hygiene measures for their clients and employees.

All operations teams are prepared to handle and contain suspected cases, and to-date, there have been no suspected cases of COVID-19 at Air Service Basel.

The 555 package signifies that operators can make 5 flights within 5 days with the 5th handling and parking fees waived.

The package includes the following additional benefits to make turnaround smooth and efficient for all customers:

- Access to crew support and lounge
- Fast ramp fuel
- No slots airport - flexible flight planning
- Transfer reservations
- Opening hours 06:00 - 22:00 (extensions possible on request)

The additional benefits of choosing Air Service Basel include a 4500m² parking hangar, available for short and long-term aircraft parking. An on-site internationally recognized maintenance and repair facility, often available at a moment's notice and passenger services that include direct ramp access, concierge services and private lounge.

Claudio Lasagni, Air Service Basel CEO says "We are all facing unpredictable challenges so now is the time to pull together to get our industry through this difficult time. Our advantages of being a small and flexible workforce have allowed us to support many exceptional requests and we continue to go above and beyond to keep operations running smoothly."

The 555 package is available until 30th June 2020.
