

FLYING SMART OPENS NEW BASE AT BIGGIN HILL

News / Business aviation

FLYING Smart has opened a new base at Biggin Hill. The facility was inaugurated in conjunction with the BGAD event held on 15 September at Biggin Hill. The company also became a Daher TBM authorised distributor.

“We congratulate David on the opening of FLYING Smart’s new headquarters, which will be the TBM sales and demonstration centre in the British Isles.”

Nicolas Chabbert, senior vice-president of Daher’s Airplane Business Unit said; “We congratulate David on the opening of FLYING Smart’s new headquarters, which will be the TBM sales and demonstration centre in the British Isles. We will follow David’s development with interest, as he is going to introduce new types of services that ultimately could be extended across our network.”

Fabry said that the BGAD event at Biggin Hill enables the UK business and general aviation sector to learn more about TBM aircraft, and hear initial details of FLYING Smart’s services – with more information on its expansion plans to be disclosed in the coming months.

“We thank Daher for its support, and we look forward to evolving our business through the host of services we will offer to our customers,” added Fabry.
