

GLOBEAIR TO PUT BALTIC AIR CHARTER ASSOCIATION LOGO ON ITS AIRCRAFT

News / Business aviation

GlobeAir will put the BACA logo on all of its Cessna Citation Mustang business jets.

Bernhard Fagnier, CEO of GlobeAir, is a member of BACA and his aircraft will be the first jets to wear the BACA logo. The logo was first applied to a GlobeAir Mustang during the British General Aviation Day 2015 held at Biggin Hill.

“I am delighted to be the first operator to display to BACA logo on the exterior of our aircraft. BACA is one of the historic association and being a member of this prestigious organisation is a remarkable certification of excellence and premium quality service.”

Fagnier said: “I am delighted to be the first operator to display to BACA logo on the exterior of our aircraft. BACA is one of the historic association and being a member of this prestigious organisation is a remarkable certification of excellence and premium quality service. I am sure that by displaying the logo, our commitment to and practice of these standards are further underlined.”

Once it has been proven that the logo can withstand frequent flying, more logos will be created and offered to other members.

Tony Coe, chairman of BACA said: “This is a proud moment for BACA. I would like to thank Bernhard for displaying the logo on his aircraft and looking forward to seeing on it appearing on many different types of aircraft in the future.”
