JETTRANSACTIONS BECOMES ACCREDITED MEMBER OF IADA

News / Business aviation

JetTransactions has become an accredited member of the International Aircraft Dealers Association (IADA). The company, founded by Brent Dahlfors and Mark Bloomer, handles business jet acquisitions, marketing and consulting with experience offering with a broad range of aircraft services.

“The IADA Board of Directors welcomes JetTransactions into the world’s largest dealer organization and the only group of accredited dealers and certified brokers,” said IADA Executive Director Wayne Starling. “JetTransactions has an excellent reputation for ethical and transparent business jet deals and the membership looks forward to continuing to work with Brent Dahlfors, Mark Bloomer and their associates.”

“The most frequent users of business jets make fewer aircraft transactions in their lives than JetTransactions oversees in a single year,” said co-founder Brent Dahlfors. “Our global team of aviation experts leads by example, having established reputations for perceptive market intelligence, trusted industry relationships and personalized customer service. Our combined record of over 1,600 new and pre-owned business jet transactions completed around the globe supports JetTransactions’ prominent position in today’s evolving aviation marketplace.” For more information go to www.jettransactions.com.

IADA is a professional trade association formed more than 30 years ago, promoting the growth and public understanding of the aircraft resale industry. IADA now offers the world's only accreditation program for dealer organizations and the only certification program for individual brokers. The process delivers lofty standards of ethical business practices and transparency regarding aircraft transactions, leading to a more efficient and reliable marketplace.
