

LUXAVIATION & SHELL SIGNED STRATEGIC COLLABORATION

News / Business aviation

Luxaviation announced the signature of a strategic collaboration with Shell Aviation, a leading global supplier of aviation fuels and lubricants. Luxaviation and Shell, beyond their existing respective FBO and fuel supply networks, will join forces for an expansion plan, Co-investing in adding new FBO locations.

The strategic collaboration aims at laying the foundations for a long-term cooperation of two leading players of the aviation industry with the ambition to progress and transform traditional business into world-wide dynamically developing operations and product portfolios.

Built For The Future

Patrick Hansen, CEO of Luxaviation Group, commented :“For more than a decade, Luxaviation group has implemented multiple initiatives to reduce the impact our business activities have on the environment, creating added value for our customers, employees and investors. The strategic alliance with Shell Aviation is the mere start of a game changing cooperation of two players in the industry nurturing a common ambition for a future sustainable aviation industry. Our teams are looking forward to summon our respective strengths for the benefit of our customers.”

Corporate Sustainability

Corporate Sustainability is an integral part of Luxaviation corporate strategy. The Group is committed to creating added value for customers, employees and investors and do so in full consideration of responsibilities toward the environment and society.

17 SEPTEMBER 2021

ARTICLE LINK:

<https://50skyshades.com/index.php/news/business-aviation/luxaviation-shell-signed-strategic-collaboration>