

MESINGER JET SALES TEAM JOINS IADA

News / Business aviation

Mesinger Jet Sales, led by well-known private aircraft broker and company founder and CEO Jay Mesinger, has joined IADA. Located in Boulder, Colo., and operating internationally, Mesinger has been in business nearly 50 years.

IADA Executive Director Wayne Starling, commented: "Jay has created a series of information tools, regularly speaks on important industry topics, and has penned articles in various aviation publications for decades. Most importantly Jay Mesinger has a global reputation for personalized, transparent service that is consistent with the best traits of IADA dealers everywhere -- dealers who lead our industry with integrity," Starling added.

Jay Mesinger said: "Mesinger Jet Sales' entire team of resale experts sticks to the highest standards of professionalism in representing our clients' interests, and our core values work well with those of our colleagues within IADA. We support IADA's continuous commitment to strengthening our industry's focus on transparency and integrity in every deal."

Mesinger Jet Sales has been in the business of buying and selling aircraft for clients for nearly 50 years. Mesinger Jet Sales has fostered a global reputation for personalized, transparent service. The Mesinger team doesn't just rely on longevity, it relies on evolving strengths, research and market insight and solid negotiating skills - resulting in fewer days on market and better deals. The company is a member of the NBAA Leadership Council.

13 MARCH 2023

ARTICLE LINK:

<https://50skyshades.com/index.php/news/business-aviation/mesinger-jet-sales-team-joins-iada>