SKYSERVICE PARTNERS WITH STARLINK BY SPACEX TO OFFER NEW IN-FLIGHT CONNECTIVITY SOLUTIONS

News / Business aviation

Skyservice Business Aviation announced its status as an Authorized Starlink Dealer. This collaboration extends the availability of Starlink's fast and reliable, in-flight connectivity to more business aircraft owners and operators.

Benjamin Murray, President and Chief Executive Officer of Skyservice commented: "At Skyservice, we are committed to growing our avionics offerings and ensuring our customers have access to the latest technology as soon as it becomes available. Offering Starlink in-flight connectivity meets our clientele's expectations and the ever-demanding growth for internet speeds and reliable, uninterrupted connectivity. We are excited about the future and the opportunities this affiliation brings to enhance our service offerings."

Starlink's advanced low Earth orbit satellite network delivers low-latency, resilient, high-speed internet connectivity, even in the most remote locations. With FAA Supplemental Type Certificate approval for Gulfstream 450 and Bombardier Global aircraft models complete, as well as Transport Canada Civil Aviation approval in progress., Skyservice is proud to offer Starlink to all Global aircraft models. The system's sleek, fuselage-mounted antenna ensures seamless 4K streaming access that elevates in-flight entertainment and productivity experience to new heights.

Skyservice boasts a large portfolio of STCs, continuously expanding its services to ensure clients enjoy the most comprehensive and state-of-the-art in-flight experience. The team's dedication to innovation and excellence allows Skyservice to meet its customers' evolving needs, providing
