News / Finance

SenAer Trading global aircraft trading platform is officially launched! SenAer was founded to create an independent digital trading platform to facilitate sales in aircraft and aircraft parts by airlines, lessors, OEMs and institutional investors with a particular focus on widening the traditional investment base for secondary aviation asset sales.

Nollaig Murphy of SenAer commented: “We are excited to finally go live with our platform following considerable planning including in-depth industry consultation, and detailed, painstaking technology construction to get us here. We truly believe this technology will assist the market by widening the supply-and-demand metric for all participants. With the orderly conversion of global fleets to new tech narrow bodies underway, the need for new buyer markets for existing aviation stock is more important than ever, and our hope is that our technology can assist the industry. SenAer are committed to providing a digital approach to aircraft sales that strives to discover and significantly increase new buyers, enhance deal execution efficiency, ensure absolute security and privacy, turbo-charge sale automation and reduce deal costs.”
