

AIRWAYS AVIATION GROUP ACQUIRES PROFESSIONE VOLARE, ITALY

News / Maintenance / Trainings

This is a beginning of a new era in Italian Aviation Training - Dubai, UAE headquartered Airways Aviation Group airwaysaviation.com announces the acquisition of Professione Volare, www.professionevolare.it one of Italy's oldest and most prestigious commercial Flight Training Schools. This acquisition represents a major milestone in the history of Airways Aviation and aligns with our strategic vision to maintain our position as one of the world's leading providers of aviation education and training.

Founded in 1994, Professione Volare has long been recognised as a cornerstone of aviation education in Italy. With a legacy that now spans 30 years, the institution has built an outstanding reputation for its commitment to excellence in training aspiring Commercial Pilots. By acquiring Professione Volare, Airways Aviation not only extends its footprint in Europe but also enhances its ability to deliver top-tier aviation training through a combination of advanced technology, experienced faculty, and a rich tradition of quality instruction.

Mauro Calvano, CEO of Airways Aviation Italy commented: “We are incredibly excited to welcome Professione Volare into the Airways Aviation family. This acquisition represents a significant advancement in our mission to expand our footprint and provide our world-class flight training across Europe and the surrounding regions. Professione Volare has a proud and long history of producing exceptional pilots and we are eager to build on this solid foundation as we continue to grow our global network and industry partnerships. We look forward to the continued success that this acquisition and expansion promises to bring.”

Airways Aviation strategic enhancement of its European operations now includes Professione Volare’s Approved Training Organisation (IT ATO 020), fully certified for ATPL (Airline Transport Pilot License) training, and its Maintenance Organisation (IT CAO 024 - formerly a Diamond Service Centre). This facility is fully approved and equipped for comprehensive maintenance on the Diamond fleet, further supporting the operational efficiency and safety of Airways Aviation’s training aircraft.

The Airways Aviation European fleet has now expanded by nine aircraft, including Diamond DA42, DA40, and DA20 models, all renowned for their reliability and advanced technology. Notably, Professione Volare was one of the first operators of Diamond training aircraft in Italy, and its expertise in this area will greatly benefit Airways Aviation’s training programs, further solidifying its position as the operator of the largest Diamond Aircraft fleet in Europe.

In addition to expanding its fleet, enhancing its capabilities, and ensuring that students have access to the best training equipment across multiple locations, Airways Aviation has acquired ownership of Professione Volare's hangars, classrooms, operations, and administrative buildings, as well as an additional ALSIM ALX simulator for its training resources in Italy. These additions complement the existing and expanding number of owned and operated facilities and equipment across Airways Aviation globally.

In further news, Airways Aviation Professione Volare is finalising the renovations and fit-out of its new Aviation Theory / Ground Training Centre located within Volandia (Italy's largest Aeronautical Museum) volandia.it/en/homepage/ adjacent to Milan Malpensa International Airport. Upon completion, this facility will deliver EASA-certified Theory Programs to complement the practical flying facilities in both Forli and a new fair-weather base in Southern Italy.

This acquisition is not just about expanding physical assets; it is part of a global vision for aviation excellence with a strong, strategic European presence. It supports management, staff, and airline industry needs by providing the right professional quality of training and resources, while enriching the educational experience for aviation cadets and
