News / Personalities

Khloe Kardashian found herself unexpectedly grounded at a Las Vegas, Nevada airport after the plane she was flying in had an emergency landing on Tuesday.

According to TMZ, the 31-year-old Keeping Up with the Kardashians star was on a plane travelling from Los Angeles to New York City when the terrifying incident occurred.

The outlet reports Khloe's commercial cross country flight was disrupted shortly after the plane was airborne, as minutes after take off pilots reported smoke was in the cockpit. To maximize passengers' safety, the plane's captain then decided to reroute and land in Las Vegas, where the aircraft touched down around 3:30PM local time.

No injuries were reported and everyone on the plane is believed to be in sound health following the occurrence, and Khloe assured fans on Twitter.com she and her make-up artist friend Joyce Bonelli are fine as well.

"supposed 2b (sic) in NYC but somehow I'm in Vegas NYC I'm trying to get there. Emergency landing but Joyce and I are SAFE," Khloe wrote.

The friends made the most of their time in the airport by sipping on cocktails and posting a live stream video via the star's mobile app as they waited to get on a new plane to New York City.
