BEIJING CAPITAL HELICOPTER APPOINTED AIRBUS HELICOPTERS' SERVICE CENTER IN CHINA

News / Airlines, Maintenance / Trainings

Beijing Capital Helicopter (BCH), a subsidiary of Hainan Airlines Group, has been appointed as Airbus Helicopters' service center in China. It will carry out maintenance, repair and overhaul (MRO) work on the H125 and H135 - two of the most popular light helicopters operating in the country today.

Already a customer of Airbus Helicopters owning a fleet of 4 H125 and 3 H135, the appointment will see the two corporations cementing their long-term partnership.

"On behalf of Airbus Helicopters, we welcome BCH into our worldwide MRO network," said Sylvain Goldberg, Chief Operating Officer of Airbus Helicopters China. "Since its creation in 2011 by Hainan Airlines Group, BCH's commitment and professionalism have led them to great achievements in the rotary wing business. Together, we will offer proximity maintenance services to our operators raise the service level for our growing base of customers in the northern China region."

joint venture with Citic Offshore Helicopter Co. and Samwell Aviation. With BCH on board, Airbus Helicopters will now be able to offer support solutions to customers across the country at closer proximity, whether they are up north or down south.

"We have obtained the CCAR Part 145 certification from the China Airworthiness Civil Authority for maintenance of the H125 and H135 helicopter types," stated BCH President Yun Qiji. "We will continue to develop our capabilities and aim to expand our expertise to cover other helicopter types and provide a full suite of services at the highest standard of quality and safety."

BCH's service center will be located within the Beijing Badaling Airport and is slated to commence operations from September this year.
