

MAN HIDES MORPHINE IN HIS CROTCH, ARRESTED AT GUANGZHOU AIRPORT

News / Airports / Routes

A male passenger was arrested at Guangzhou Baiyun International Airport (CAN) last Friday after trying to pass security with morphine hidden in his crotch.

At around 8:00 on Oct. 9 when a male passenger was getting through security at Guangzhou airport, the security staff spotted something abnormal in his crotch. After inspection they found a black plastic film wrappage under his genital and suspected something like drug was inside. In addition, a drug paraphernalia was also found in his carry-on luggage.

The suspected drug was proved as 1.06 grams of morphine by police.
