The VIP interior of the ACJ320 features a modern interior balanced with a classic European flare. Comlux Creatives led the design under the direction of Lauri Church and in partnership with Fiona Riddle of In Flight Cabin Solutions.

“We worked closely with the customer and his family to create a beautiful, modern interior that has a residential feel.”

Fiona Riddle said: “We worked closely with the customer and his family to create a beautiful, modern interior that has a residential feel. Each area has its own unique elements, while maintaining a muted colour palate to allow the flow between rooms to feel natural and relaxing.”

The aircraft has its own master suite and includes an area for business meetings and business class seating

The ACJ320 features a Venue IFE system that has Airshow for real time map and flight information.

“Since day one, we have been very engaged with the customer at every step on this program.”

Scott Meyer, CEO of Comlux America added: “Since day one, we have been very engaged with the customer at every step on this program. We were able to meet their individual tastes and needs while delivering a one-of-a-kind, modern, ACJ 320 interior on time and at the highest level of quality. We continue to demonstrate that Comlux has a major worldwide presence in the completion industry. The completion of this aircraft, along with the arrival of our first VIP wide body aircraft, an A330 last month, further demonstrates the continued progression of our enterprise worldwide.”

Comlux America is based in Indianapolis, Indiana and is part of Comlux, The Aviation Group.
