News / Business aviation, Events / Festivals

Aircraft management company Emperor Aviation, which is a part of Aim of Emperor multi-diversified group of companies, takes delivery of a new ultra long-range business jet Bombardier Global 6000. Emperor Aviation experts have monitored all stages of jet production and delivery on Bombardier's facilities in Canada and in the USA for over the year. The announcement was made during ????? 2017.

– Bombardier's flagship Global 6000 is a golden ratio, where technologies of future and unprecedented quality are correlated in equal parts, – says Iraklii Litanishvili, Emperor Aviation's owner. – Our successful previous experience of operating a fleet of Global XRS jets shows that Bombardier's ultra long-range jets are the right balance of safety, performance, range and home-like comfortable and spacious interior.

New Global 6000 became the eighth long-range business jet in Emperor Aviation's fleet. New aircraft is equipped with the most advanced telecommunication and entertainment systems, which can be controlled literary from the palm of a hand. Due to the special app for iPod gadget passengers have one-touch control over all audio and video systems, air temperature and electric shutters of illuminators.

Bombardier's flagship Global 6000 will be operated under Emperor Aviation's Maltese AOC. Maltese prefix "9H" will maximize the benefits for the jet's owner: from favorable tax legislation to unhindered flights between all EU member states. The aircraft, which catalog price starts from $ 60.5 million, will be used in the interests of the private owner. Emperor Aviation will use its "know-how" – a transparent financial structure of aircraft management, which allows to cut the operational costs by 15-25% for smooth operation of this jet.

Bombardier Global 6000 is one of the most liquid aircrafts in pre-owned business jets market. As of May 2017, 224 of these models have been in operation worldwide, of which only 11% are in open sale, or 4.9% of the overall number of these jets in operation.
