

JET AVIATION MOSCOW VNUKOVO RECEIVES FAA APPROVAL FOR N-REGISTERED AIRCRAFT

News / Business aviation

Jet Aviation Moscow Vnukovo has received repair station approval from the U.S. Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) following a recent audit at the MRO facility. FAA approval authorizes the company to support aircraft registered in the United States.

With this FAA approval, Jet Aviation Moscow Vnukovo is able to provide scheduled and unscheduled maintenance, airframe and engine repairs, avionics modifications, inspections and defect rectifications on U.S.-registered aircraft, including Bombardier, Gulfstream, Embraer, Falcon and Hawker.

“We are delighted to expand our service offerings to support American business aviation aircraft owners and operators and look forward to welcoming them to our facility in Moscow,” says Vitaly Aleksikov, general director at Jet Aviation Moscow Vnukovo.
