

NETJETS AND SIGNATURE AVIATION ANNOUNCE LANDMARK PARTNERSHIP FOR FIRST NEW-BUILD FACILITY IN LAS VEGAS

News / Business aviation

NetJets and Signature Aviation broke ground last week on a cutting-edge facility in Las Vegas—the first-ever new-build collaboration between the companies. The extensive campus at Harry Reid International Airport (LAS) will feature a custom-designed NetJets exclusive-use terminal, NetJets Service Hub™, and two hangars. Projected to be operational by 2027, this state-of-the-art space will allow NetJets to augment aircraft access and elevate the day-of-travel experience for its customers—respectfully referred to as “Owners” by the company—flying to or from the western U.S. and beyond.

Patrick Gallagher, President, NetJets Aviation commented: “NetJets has eagerly anticipated breaking ground on the extraordinary Las Vegas facility we are building with our valued partner Signature Aviation. This new campus will amplify the industry-leading service and aircraft access our Owners expect and deserve, while simultaneously creating job opportunities for residents in the region.”

Tony Lefebvre, Chief Executive Officer, Signature Aviation stated: “We are excited to celebrate the groundbreaking of a state-of-the-art, dedicated private aviation terminal at Harry Reid International Airport in Las Vegas in collaboration with NetJets. This milestone is a testament to the longstanding partnership between our organizations and a shared mission to provide safe, seamless, and exceptional experiences to our guests in every moment.”

The new NetJets-only terminal will present Owners with an inviting lobby, dedicated parking, and vehicular ramp access for seamless arrivals and departures. NetJets Service Representatives will also be on site to greet and assist Owners and support Crewmembers.

The latest of NetJets’ strategically located aircraft maintenance facilities, this new NetJets Service Hub will have an expansive hangar attached to the private terminal and operate 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Like many of the other NetJets Service Hubs across the globe, this facility will be home to a robust inventory of aircraft parts and a dedicated team of aviation specialists committed to ensuring NetJets’ aircraft are pristine, maintained to the highest standards, and mission-ready, further enhancing Owners’ access to reliable private travel. The second hangar on the campus will be used by NetJets’ subsidiary Executive Jet Management, the world’s largest aircraft management and charter company.

In addition to the advantages afforded NetJets Owners, this joint development project will generate hundreds of construction jobs and dozens of full-time operational positions, spurring economic growth and enriching the Las Vegas community.

The announcement of this significant partnership and recent inaugural groundbreaking further demonstrates each company’s commitment to global service excellence and local community advancement.
