News / Maintenance / Trainings

Alsim is very pleased to announce the sale of its first AL42 FNPT II in China to AXAviation, located at Wuhu Aviation Industrial Park, Anhui Province. This AL42 VI simulates the Diamond DA42 -VI with the Austro engine and a GFC 700 digital autopilot and will be level 5 certified.

The two companies also signed a partnership together to distribute Alsim AL42 flight simulators in China.

AXAviation CEO, Dr. Xu Shuqing says: “We are very happy to start this cooperation with Alsim, which is a renowned company in the flight simulation world. We chose each other, the Chinese market is huge and the cooperation established between Alsim and AXAviation is based on mutual-trust, development and to win-win. We hope that this is the beginning of a great and long-lasting collaboration between our two companies. We know the quality of their devices and the great after-sales service they offer will greatly benefit the Chinese market”.

Audrey Jeffroy, Alsim’s Sales Director, adds: “Alsim is very pleased to begin this partnership with AXAviation, as developing our presence in China is one of our main targets for 2018. We look forward to continue working hand in hand with AXAviation in the future and help them provide the best possible tools and services for China”.

Anhui AXAviation Tech. Co., Ltd. was established in April, 2016 as a private limited company with the objective of manufacturing & training for flight simulators for both international and domestic airlines. The company’s research & development center is also located at Wuhu aviation industrial park, Anhui province.

The company joined the Anhui General Aviation Association in January 2017 and became a member of its council. The company is registered with a capital liability of 21 million RMB. The core business is in the R&D, design, manufacture, assembly, sales, maintenance and technical services of flight simulators.

AXAviation also focuses on supporting scientific research enterprises at the Wuhu Aviation Industrial Park. The company has a highly qualified talented team of local and international staff.
