

HAYWARD & GREEN AVIATION LIMITED JOINS AIRCRAFT PARTS AND CONSUMABLES PLATFORM LOCATORY.COM

News / Maintenance / Trainings

A global online aviation spare parts and repair capabilities' marketplace Locatory.com has signed a cooperation agreement with the UK-based aircraft parts stockist, distributor and asset manager Hayward & Green Aviation Limited. The agreement follows long-standing cooperation between the companies and defines an extended scope of further collaboration.

According to terms of cooperation, from now on Hayward & Green Aviation Limited can offer its inventory and capabilities to multiple international markets through Locatory.com marketplace and list its inventory on the platform catalogues directly linked to the most popular general search engines, such as Google, Bing, Yandex and Baidu.

“We are extremely proud to add such a noted industry player as Hayward & Green Aviation Limited to our already impressive portfolio of clients. The UK-based provider has a long-standing experience and one of the highest reputes in the industry. Its confidence in Locatory.com is a true testimony to the quality of our products. I believe that this agreement will serve as a great example of how a company with deeply rooted business traditions and the right attitude to innovation can successfully facilitate the newest IT tools to achieve an even bigger success in the highly competitive aviation sector,” said Dainius Meilunas, the CEO of Locatory.com.

By joining Locatory.com platform, Hayward & Green Aviation Limited will help to significantly expand the already extensive assortment of parts and consumables available to the marketplace users 24/7 worldwide. At the moment, Hayward & Green Aviation Limited stocks over 400,000 lines of inventory at its Sussex headquarters and five remote warehouse sites in the UK and the USA. The estimated value of its parts inventory tops $10m. Moreover, its technical data library comprises IPCs, CMMs and APs for most types of regional and narrow body aircraft operated within the last 30 years.

“We are constantly working on designing new tools and solutions to facilitate the ever-increasing needs of our clients. Efficiency, speed, accessibility, visibility and reliability are the key criteria for all our users. It is simply great to see how these values path the way towards collaboration with the leading industry players such as Hayward & Green Aviation Limited,” commented D. Meilunas.

About Hayward & Green Aviation Limited

Established in 1969, Hayward & Green Aviation Limited was founded with the goal of providing a cost effective, swift and reliable supply of avionics and aircraft instrumentation material and support to airlines and governments worldwide. Today the company’s engineering business operations span over 35 countries and its supply chain support encompasses over 30 platforms. Hayward & Green Aviation Limited s product portfolio ranges from nuts, bolts and washers to complete aircraft, major LRUs and both jet and turbine engines.

05 OCTOBER 2017

ARTICLE LINK:

<https://50skyshades.com/news/maintenance-trainings/hayward-green-aviation-limited-joins-aircraft-parts-and-consumables-platform-locatorycom>