

DIAMOND AIRCRAFT LAUNCHES “DADEVISTA” 3D CONFIGURATOR – NOW LIVE ONLINE

News / Manufacturer

Diamond Aircraft announced the official launch of DADEVISTA, company’ new web-based 3D aircraft configurator, first unveiled at AERO Friedrichshafen 2026 and now live on the Diamond Aircraft website for public use. DADEVISTA, or the Diamond Aircraft Digital Environment for Visual Interactive Tendering Application, is designed to transform the way customers explore, understand, and configure Diamond aircraft. More than a traditional configurator, DADEVISTA provides an intuitive, mission-focused environment that allows users to visualize how operational requirements, performance considerations, and configuration choices interact in real time.

Luca Giaquinta, CEO of Diamond Aircraft Germany commented: “DADEVISTA is about clarity. It helps customers not only see an aircraft but truly understand how each decision supports their mission, before that decision is made.”

The new configurator enables prospective owners and operators to define their mission profile, explore aircraft configurations, and gain early insight into factors such as payload, range, operating considerations, and design options. The tool serves as an entry point into Diamond Aircraft's broader digital sales ecosystem, supporting informed decision-making from the very first interaction.

An online version, accessible to the public on the Diamond Aircraft official website, allows users to experiment with exterior and interior design as well as with equipment options. Behind the public-facing configurator lies a comprehensive digital sales room environment used internally and with Diamond's global sales partners, connecting mission definition, performance analysis, and cost evaluation in a structured workflow. From the moment a configuration is created, DADEVISTA seamlessly connects prospective customers with the most relevant Diamond Aircraft sales representative, ensuring personalized support throughout the journey.
